MEET THE ARTIST

Amelia Arabe is a Filipino American artist and systems engineer based in Elysian Valley, Los Angeles. Often described as a Renaissance woman, she brings a wide range of interests and disciplines to her creative practice. Oil painting is her calm in the storm. Working primarily in oil on canvas, Amelia captures moments of pure bliss and translates the emotions she felt within those spaces into layered, deeply personal works.

Her background as a systems engineer has shaped an analytical and mathematical way of seeing, which informs her interest in architecture, interiors, and landscapes. As a cellist, she is equally attuned to rhythm, structure, and feeling. These different parts of her life meet in her paintings: the precision of observation alongside the freedom of Impressionism. Amelia's work reflects the depth of a layered life, revealing not only what a place looks like, but what it felt like to be there.

Amelia Arabe

Bar Henry in Echo Park on a still Thursday evening. I went alone to listen to some music. A nosy woman asked if I was stood up.

This vibrant piece is the first of a series: Live Music in LA. A collection of paintings that depict live music performances I saw this summer from my perspective.

This one in particular is meant to capture a love of solitude. The wine glass on the table in the foreground paired with the bright colors show that I was alone in this moment but I was content. I studied the beauty of the scene and enjoyed my time alone listening to each musician tell stories with their instruments.

BAR HENRY IN ECHO PARK : UNDERPAINTING

The blue underpainting gives the finished product a deep but distant feel. These events I attended are memories I will cherish for a lifetime because they were my saving grace from the beast of moving to a new city by yourself.

My method of creating these pieces became ritual. I would find live music, attend alone, soak in the details of my settings for an hour or two. Once I felt confident that I could recreate it on a canvas, I'd go home and begin.

ORO VISTA

STAINED GLASS IN MANILA

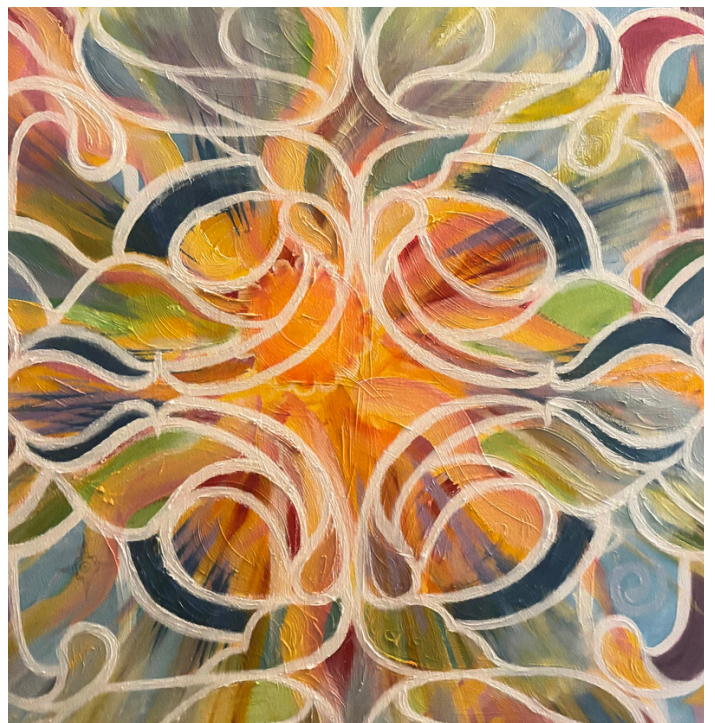

Oro

I painted the stained-glass window that watched me grow up. I began again with blue, a color that brings tranquility to this chapter of my life. Layer by layer, I painted the light pouring through the window, carrying a piece of the Philippines to California, before containing it within clean white lines.

BALANCE: EL MATADOR AT SUNSET & MOONRISE

Once again, something about blue has found it's place in all my pieces. These projects all started before I was aware of LANG's artist call.

TRANQUIL MEMORIES

A mini collection of works depicting moments that I felt entirely at peace. An imaginative “double exposure” of California wild fires next to our state wild flower. A building in Vienna, Austria that I started at for too long. The view from a church window in Austria before my first orchestra performance in a different country. I plan to finish the collection with the interior of a greenhouse in Baltimore, MD>

NOSTALGIA

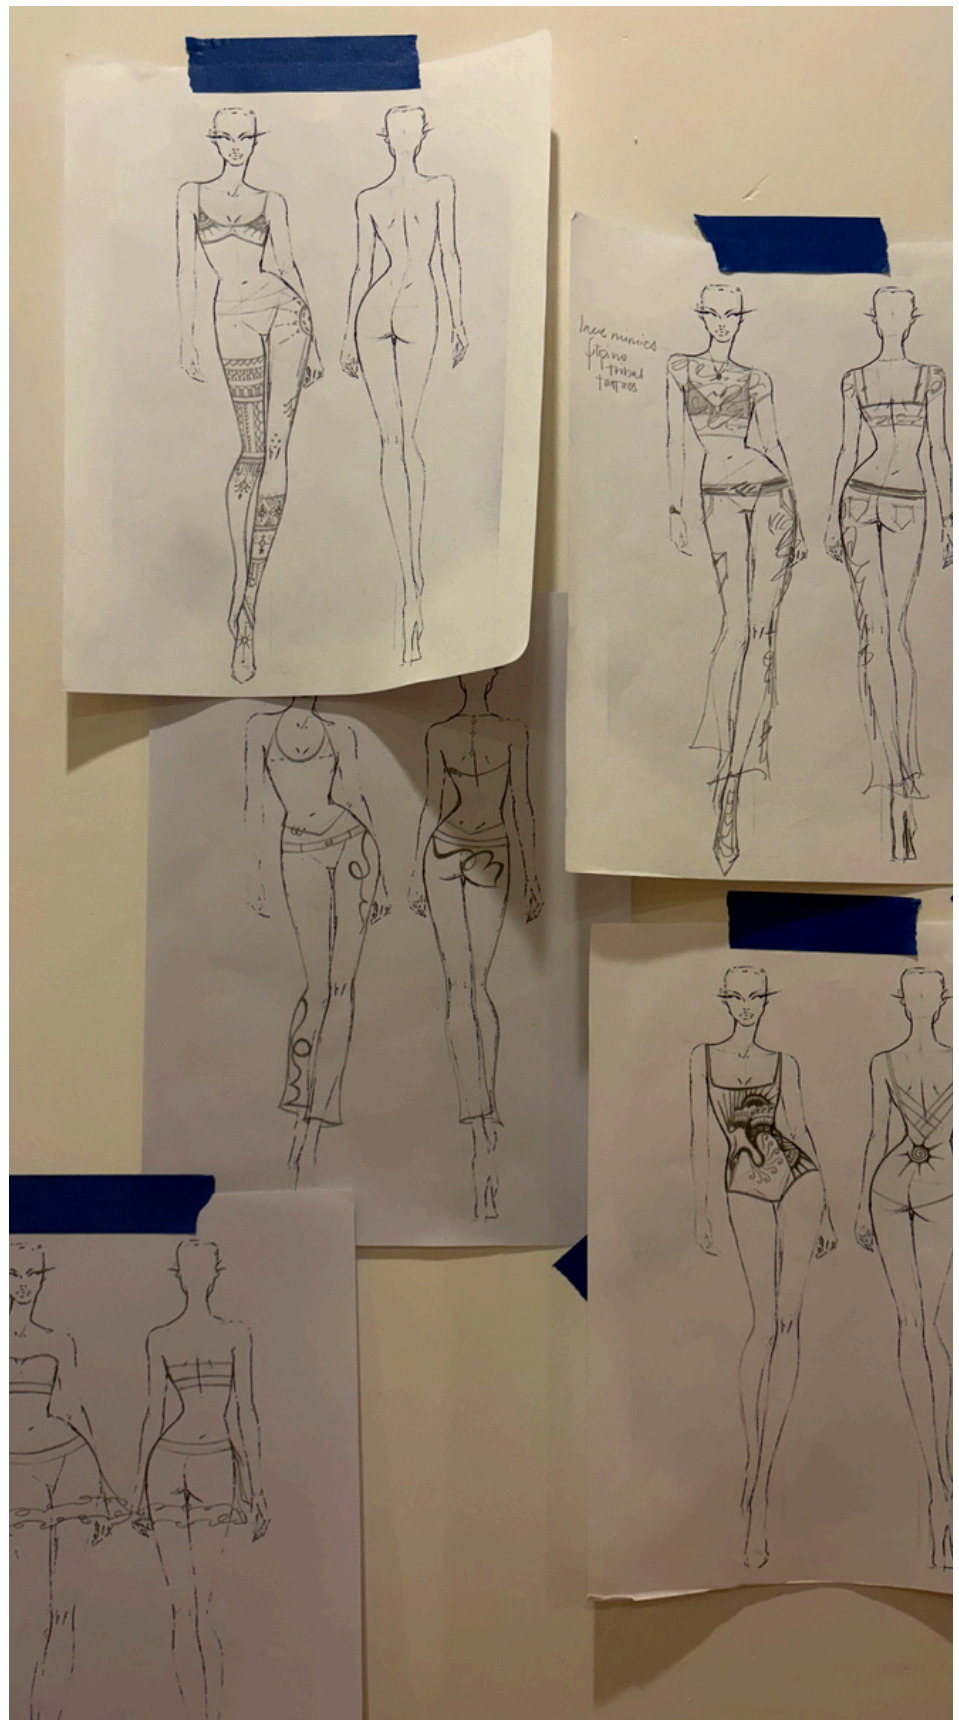

A mini collection of animated scenes from childhood. Haru from Spirited Away flying over a city. Architecture from Avatar the Last Airbender. The Fire Nation beach house is still to be made.

I have always loved fashion and feel deeply connected to my heritage. It has been inspiring to witness Asian Americans thriving in Los Angeles, and I would be honored to contribute to the celebration of LANG LA's third anniversary.

Creating art from my own life and memories brings me immense joy. Your prompt encouraged me to romanticize the everyday and invite others into my perspective. Whether or not I am selected, I feel motivated to continue creating, and I look forward to celebrating the event. Thank you for taking the time to consider my work. I'm grateful for the opportunity to share my story and wish you the very best in selecting the featured artist.

With gratitude,
Amelia
